ART EDUCATION CATALOG

2024/2025

Loving the Process

Right: Wyatt on the roof of the Printers Building with the Davis sign—one of his really big ideas. The sign is lit up at night and is visible all over the city. Photo by Tom Fiorelli.

Each year, I sit down to craft the letters that will go into the new catalog and advocacy planner. There is always a topic I'm eager to connect with you about. We have a lot in common, you and I, we are artists, we believe in art education, and we love "the process"—of learning and of creating.

I learned to love the process from my father.

We lost Wyatt Wade earlier this year. The world is gray without him, but he always urged "onward through the fog," pushing us to the brightness on the other side. As you can imagine, this too is a process. It's one that I've come to trust as I listen to stories about him and how he affected people in the world.

Wyatt was part of Davis for 39 years. He began as an editor in 1977 and retired as President and Publisher in 2016. This means, if you've ever picked up an issue of SchoolArts magazine, a Davis book, or Davis catalog, for that matter, you knew my father. The following excerpt is from the tribute article published in SchoolArts and written by Claire Golding who worked for Davis and was a long-time friend of Wyatt's. As you read through it, I wonder if you'll see the same thing I do. You have a lot in common with my father too!

"Wyatt had qualities that enabled him to bring his dreams to life and inspire others to dream right along with him. Here are just some of those qualities:

He believed in people.

Sometimes more than they believed in themselves. That made him a great acquiring editor: He often had to convince authors that they really could write that article or book. It also made him a great boss because he saw strengths that not everyone did and cheered us on.

He believed in the arts.

He may not have taught art, but he taught history and revered the humanities. Anyone who worked with him learned about art's vital importance in education and Davis's role in supporting it.

He had vision.

Most mornings, Wyatt had ten new ideas before we could even hang up our coats. And he didn't forget them. For a hasty man, he had great stores of patience. He also had deep wells of optimism, an indispensable resource in the unpredictable world of publishing. He was always able to see possibilities.

He was a natural teacher.

Wyatt could certainly talk, but he could also communicate. He taught us to speak to authors by inviting us to listen to his conversations; we learned to appreciate Davis's history and mission because he shared it with us all the time.

If I had to name one enduring lesson (among many) that Wyatt left me, it's this one: You gotta love the process. He always did."

The rest of the SchoolArts tribute is filled with memories from more people who knew Wyatt on many levels. Visit DavisArt.com/WyattWade to read the stories! It is fitting he is remembered through the process of storytelling and the tales he starred in. I hope you enjoy reading them and the process of getting to know him more.

Give students opportunities to investigate ideas, materials, and techniques. Explorations in Art provides art educators with the most resources for constructing meaningful connections to learning and inquiry across the curriculum.

Designed specifically to help students make choices, think about what they have created, and explore how they might work in the future, this program helps students see themselves as part of the learning and artistic process.

Big Ideas and Essential Questions

Each unit is organized around a Big Idea and an Essential Question. For example: “Alone and Together: How do people share their lives with one another?” These Big Ideas engage students in exploring the relevance of art in their own lives and the lives of people across time and place.

Process-Based Studios

By learning a process that emphasizes the importance of thinking, planning, and reflection, students go beyond “make and take.” Process-based studios help students learn process-based thinking as it relates to art, design, and other areas of the curriculum.

STEAM Lessons and Connections

Each unit includes STEAM lessons developed by a team of experts. These engaging lessons include student exploration of STEAM concepts through viewing, discussing, and creating artworks. Combine these lessons with the STEAM Art Cards for group work and exploration.

Emphasis on Inquiry

As students create their own artworks and respond to artworks made by others, they investigate ideas and construct meaningful connections to learning and inquiry across the curriculum, including STEAM, literacy, and connections across the arts.

Student Big Book, Kindergarten.

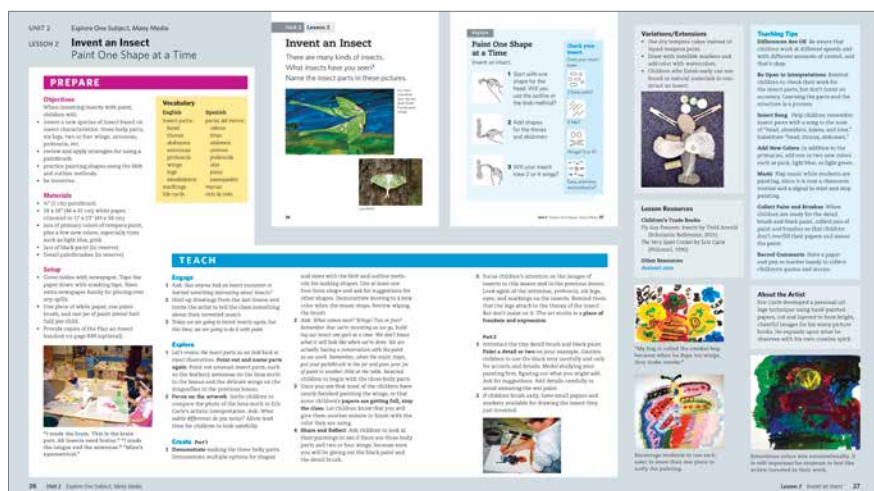

Experience the delight of discovering materials, developing skills, and inventing new ways to create alongside your students. Each lesson of this child-centered, carefully structured program provides classroom-tested approaches to early encounters with materials and processes as well as effective classroom management techniques.

Big Book

- Carefully chosen works of fine art and photographs of the world around us to help spark children's interest.
- Simple text to introduce concepts.
- Clearly illustrated Studio Explorations to help children discover their own creativity.
- Large size (16 x 20") to facilitate full class or small group instruction.

Big Book, Unit 2: Explore One Subject, Many Media; Lesson 2: Invent an Insect, Paint One Shape at a Time.

Teacher Edition, Unit 2: Explore One Subject, Many Media; Lesson 2: Invent an Insect, Paint One Shape at a Time.

Teacher Edition

- Includes point-of-use teaching support to reinforce techniques, offer background, or remind children of expectations.
- Gets you ready to teach with materials lists, vocabulary, age-appropriate objectives, and setup suggestions.
- Offers ongoing assessment suggestions and scoring rubrics.
- Provides tips for making each lesson more successful, manageable, and enjoyable.
- Takes you step-by-step through the lesson: engaging students at the start, suggesting questions and comments to promote idea-sharing, pointing out potential challenges, and more.
- Suggests variations and extensions to lengthen or deepen instruction.
- Includes illustrations and photographs of classroom situations and children's artwork.

Student Book, Grade 3.

Student content for grades 1–6 includes six units organized around a Big Idea that is relevant to students' lives and fosters meaningful connections to artworks across time and place, as well as an Essential Question designed to promote student inquiry, reflection, and exploration.

Experience Art

PRINT + DIGITAL

FIRST EDITION By Marilyn G. Stewart

Give students meaningful artmaking experiences that underscore the relevance of art in their lives and reveal the important role it plays in cultures around the world. Experience Art provides art educators with the most flexibility possible. But that doesn't mean isolated learning activities! Designed specifically to create rich and deep interconnections, this program builds students' knowledge, skills, and learner agency as they express ideas and feelings through art.

Theme-Based Learning

Unit themes such as Messages and Identity foster active inquiry and offer opportunities for natural connections across the curriculum. Elements and principles, skills and techniques, and forms and media are presented as tools to help students interpret artists' ideas and express their own ideas through art.

Essential Questions

Content organized around Essential Questions puts students on a path of inquiry that matters. These questions encourage students to explore Big Ideas that unite all people around the world and across time. Essential Questions in each unit provide students with opportunities to connect what they learn to the real world where they can put it to use.

Process-Based Studios

A wide range of dynamic studio activities focus on issues and ideas important to middle-schoolers. By learning a process that emphasizes the importance of thinking, planning, and reflection in creating original artworks, students move beyond isolated learning activities. Process-based studios foster divergent outcomes that create personal connections.

Choice

Students are empowered to take ownership in their learning and become active participants in the creative process. Lessons and Choice Center activities throughout Experience Art build critical thinking skills as students make choices about what they create using contemporary and traditional approaches to artmaking.

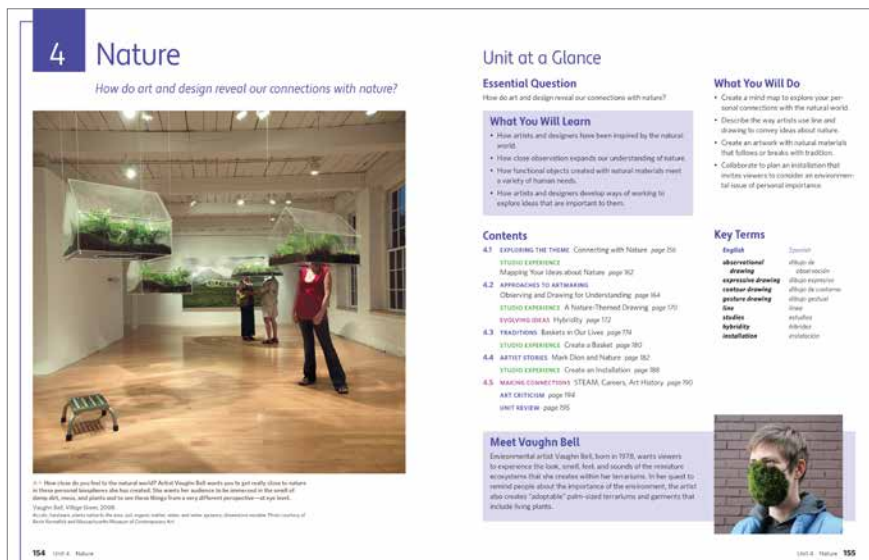

View the National Visual Arts Standards correlations at DavisArt.com/Standards.

The Visual Experience

PRINT + DIGITAL

FOURTH EDITION By Joe Fusaro and Emily Hood

Bring meaningful artmaking experiences to students with our classic introductory visual arts curriculum. Capture the attention of even the most reluctant student with opportunities to engage with art in new ways. The Visual Experience provides strong support for amplifying student voice as they focus on process and ideation.

Essential Questions

Enduring ideas and important topics students should understand deeply showcase the relevance of art in students' lives and lay the foundation for artmaking experiences. Filled with student choice, lessons throughout the program ensure students are fully engaged in learning and able to nurture their creative voice.

Inquiry-Based Learning

Provide students with the opportunity to focus on the steps of making art. Studio experiences across the program are specifically developed to support differentiated discovery. Give students the space to consider what they are making, how they are thinking, and critically analyze new ideas.

Postmodern Principles

Introduce students to and engage them with the evolving elements of art and principles of design. Lessons include concepts such as appropriation and recontextualization to extend the traditional elements and principles of making art and help students better understand the complexity of artwork created today.

Student Engagement

Art and artists from diverse cultures around the world, thought-provoking contemporary art, and outstanding student art capture the attention of even the most reluctant students, help them see themselves in the instructional materials, and engage with lessons on a deeper level.

Just think about your successes in the art room and start writing!

The Choice Issue, April 2024.

Writing for SchoolArts made an immediate impact on my career. Each of my published articles lends me credibility at my school with our administrators, our faculty, and parents. My students are simply delighted to see their artwork in a magazine. More important to me personally, working with SchoolArts introduced me to the wide world of passionate art educators. It is a joy to meet, befriend, and correspond with like-minded teachers. Few people understand my vocation as well as the SchoolArts community does. I am grateful for the resource and their friendship.

NEW!

Ethical Decision-Making in Art Education

Christina Bain

Art education training typically covers many practical facets of the job—classroom management, writing a lesson plan, demonstrating how to properly slip and score a clay pot—but rarely does it comprehensively address the many ethical challenges art teachers may face. Teachers are expected to adhere to a professional code of ethics (National Education Association, 2002–2015), yet limited preservice and/or inservice teacher training specifically addresses how educators make these types of decisions. How do art educators learn to make effective professional decisions, especially when teaching encompasses diverse situations, environments, and often ambiguous situations?

This new title in the Art Education in Practice series explores the fundamentals and practical aspects of the ethical decision-making process. Grounded in research, this book will help readers examine how personal values and behavioral ethics inform and shape teaching practice and develop ethical decision-making strategies that are crucial for practitioners. 152 pages, softcover.

Artmaking, Play, and Meaning Making

Sydney R. Walker

While play is typically associated with young children, the idea of play as an instrument of thinking can be applied to all students. Framing artmaking with play as two forces pulling in opposite directions (like order and chaos) can expose hidden ideas. In this impactful new book, the author draws from contemporary artists and classroom artmaking to demonstrate how play works to evoke diverse thought and challenges students to move beyond traditional artmaking. Discover examples illustrating disruption through play and how experiences can be designed for the classroom. 210 pages, softcover.

Race and Art Education

Amelia M. Kraehe and Joni B. Acuff

"Understanding the complexities of race, especially as it relates to educating students of all backgrounds is crucial. We need strategies and a succinct vocabulary that helps us speak frankly about how race guides our work, from curriculum to classroom management." With a focus on classroom practice, this book addresses issues of race in an accessible style. It provides a well-informed introduction to essential concepts for engaging race and includes units of instruction and practical suggestions for doing so in a constructive, equity-oriented manner. 212 pages, softcover.

Therapeutic Approaches in Art Education

Lisa Kay. Working with students who have experienced adversity and trauma can be challenging. Discover trauma-informed approaches in the newest title of the Art Education in Practice Series. Dr. Lisa Kay provides a practical guide for educators who wish to support therapeutic artmaking in their practice with strategies that can be applied to a typical classroom setting—urban, rural, or suburban—and address marginalized populations. While you will not become an art therapist, this book will help you support your students in thoughtful, holistic ways. 186 pages, softcover.

Differentiated Instruction in Art

Heather L. R. Fountain.

This resource adapts the leading theories, ideas, and best practices for art educators. Discover new ideas as you are guided through the author's journey of incorporating effective methods into practice in the art room. This title provides strategies that make learning meaningful, exciting, and accessible. There are suggestions for how to foster community in the art room by empowering students in a variety of ways, including building choice into the process, content, and product in your lessons. 221 pages, softcover.

Assessment in Art Education

Donna Kay Beattie. From portfolios to integrated performance options this book details a wide variety of assessment strategies. Traditional methods, scoring and judging strategies, as well as formative and summative assessment styles are all explored. Strategies on how to combine assessment with art instruction and thorough explanations of assessment vocabulary and key concepts are included. 147 pages, softcover.

Thinking through Aesthetics

Marilyn G. Stewart. Designed to encourage your students to ask questions about art, this book features a wealth of specific activities that facilitate philosophical inquiry and develop critical thinking skills. Activities for philosophical inquiry and for introducing and practicing skills are included, as well as reproducible worksheets and activity pages. 128 pages, softcover.

Rethinking Curriculum in Art

Marilyn G. Stewart & Sydney R. Walker. Research shows that thematic teaching across the curriculum significantly increases student engagement. This groundbreaking book gives concrete examples of how teachers can enhance their current lessons by organizing them around meaningful, universal themes such as identity and relationships. Step-by-step guidelines for selecting content and organizing art instruction, as well as charts to guide curriculum planning are included. 162 pages, softcover.

Engaging Visual Culture

Karen Keifer-Boyd and Jane Maitland-Gholson. A guidebook for teachers to help students make sense of the pervasive flow of visual information shaping their worldview and way of being. By gaining an understanding of the presence and power of visual culture, students are empowered to participate actively in constructing their own meanings. Reproducible handouts and worksheets include practical strategies for teaching each chapter. 162 pages, softcover.

Community Art in Action

Kristin Congdon. This resource shows how art education programs can be expanded to address community-based and cultural traditions. The text explains how art and aesthetic choices are at the heart of communities and discusses how community practices are associated with the natural and built environment, recreational activities, and ethnic traditions. Activities for involving students in their local community are included. 121 pages, softcover.

Teaching Meaning in Artmaking

Sydney R. Walker. Built on a constructivist philosophy of learning, this book explores ways of fostering inquiry and discovery in the studio classroom. The works of contemporary artists are used to help explain the role of Big Ideas and personal connections in artmaking. Tips on designing meaningful studio instruction and problem-solving strategies, and questions and practical strategies on "unpacking" the artmaking process are included. 160 pages, softcover.

Using the Art Museum

Denise L. Stone. How can the museum be incorporated into the school curriculum in a meaningful way? The author highlights examples of exemplary programs that engage students in meaningful ways and provides practical ideas for making your local art museum an exceptional education resource. Reproducible worksheets and checklists for planning your museum trips are included. 130 pages, softcover.

Roots of Art Education Practice

Mary Ann Stankiewicz. Readers will gain insights into the circumstances under which curricular practices originated enhancing their appreciation of the beliefs that shape art education today. Meet some of the people who proposed and implemented the changes in the way art should be taught. Discover the origins of the focus on the elements of art and principles of design. 146 pages, softcover.

A comprehensive look at how and why a student-directed classroom is essential for the development of the student artist. Making Artists picks up where The Open Art Room left off, covering issues and situations choice-based art teachers encounter as they design their program. Discover tested methods for working through situations such as room design, material handling, student ideation, and assessment, along with a new set of unit and lesson plans. 247 pages, softcover, print/digital.

essential questions that encourage students to learn about, respond to, and create contemporary art. 137 pages, softcover, print/digital.

The Complete Metalsmith, Revised Edition

Tim McCreight. Grades 9–12. Since its publication in 1982, The Complete Metalsmith has become a standard reference for jewelers and metalsmiths. Detailed explanations and up-to-date information on more than 125 techniques make this the authoritative shop guide for experienced metalworkers and the single source of practical technical information for all. 198 pages, spiral-bound, softcover.

Engaging the Adolescent Mind: Through Visual Problem Solving

Ken Vieth. Grades 9–12. Engage students through visual problem-solving with thought-provoking studio experiences designed to encourage personal expression. Each studio includes objectives, a technical challenge, and reflection opportunities. 148 pages, softcover.

HANDS-ON RESOURCE

Why PiktoTape™?

1. Thick paper backing provides a rich, opaque color so you don't see walls through it.
2. Beautiful curves. Elasticity allows for the creation of smooth curves, not just straight lines.
3. Three widths for drawing and sculpting (½-inch, 1-inch, and 2-inch) to help you achieve any artistic vision!
4. Nose-friendly—no unpleasant and distracting chemical odors.
5. Smaller cores (2-inch) allow participants of all ages to easily hold and manipulate rolls.
6. Limited color palette (blue and green) to focus student work on line quality and texture.
7. Rip, rip, rip. Thick paper backing can be ripped by hand. No blades or scissors needed.
8. Low-adhesive, easy removal.
9. Spongy adhesive sticks to everything including dusty exterior walls.

See page 34 to learn about the book.

In 1989, the original Tape Art® Crew pioneered the use of tape as a drawing medium. For more than 30 years, they've created massive temporary artwork on buildings all over the world. What tape do they use? PiktoTape™! Where can you get it? Davis! We've partnered with the artists from the Tape Art® Crew to bring you this brand-new medium. PiktoTape™ experiences produce transformational results for students as they model the importance of being open to new perspectives, illustrating the strength of diverse groups.

Support Academic Vocabulary Development and Oral Language Skills with Art

The most effective way to build student vocabulary is to give your students frequent oral language experiences. Engage learners of all abilities in academically productive discussions of fine art and real-world images. By using the carefully crafted sequential scripts, you can fully engage students and accelerate their vocabulary, comprehension, and oral expression.

Discussions4Learning builds overall vocabulary knowledge by repeatedly exposing students to advanced academic vocabulary in a variety of contexts, which prepares them to comprehend increasingly challenging cross-curricular vocabulary.

Each level includes:

- Teaching support for each theme in the program.
- Program Guide
- 96 fine art and real-world images used in the lessons
