

REFRAMING THE ART ROOM

A Restorative Practices Book Study

What if the way we respond to students could change the way they experience the art room?

Today's learners bring a wide range of experiences, needs, and challenges into our classrooms. Restorative practices offer a new way to build connections, foster positive behavior, strengthen relationships, increase engagement, and create a classroom community where every student can thrive.

Join the authors/editors of Restorative Practices in Education Through the Arts for a complimentary six-part online book study exploring practical ways to bring restorative practices into your everyday teaching.

Rethink, Reflect, and Create with:

- Live online sessions
- Creative reflection
- Author-led discussions
- Optional open studio
